The fall and winter season of activities for the American Guild of Organists in New York was opened on the evening of Oct. 22 with a dinner at Schrafft's Fifth Avenue restaurant. The occasion was in honor of the new academic members who passed the examinations in 1945.

Dr. Walter Damrosch was the guest speaker of the evening. He delighted his audience with anecdotes of his early career. Many were surprised to learn that Dr. Damrosch was at one time an organist, although "not a very good one," he said, "since I had difficulty in managing both my hands and feet at the same ing both my hands and feet at the same

TWO RECITALS BY MARCHAL

New Organist of St. Eustache in Paris Plays Under Auspices of the American Army School—American Organists on Faculty.

[Seth Bingham, a member of the faculty of Columbia University, New York; organist and choirmaster of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church and subwarden of the American Guild of Organists, who is in Biarritz, France, as a teacher in the army music school by appointment of the War Department, sends the subjoined letter describing the auspicious beginning of the school.]

By SETH BINGHAM

By SETH BINGHAM

The army's "Biarritz American University" (hereafter referred to as BAU) opened its doors Aug. 20 to approximately 4,000 students. Of the total registration over 550 are in the music department, directed by Dr. Edwin Stringham of Queens College, Brooklyn. The musical and cultural background of the students is unusually high and their enthusiasm makes it a pleasure to teach them. Even the less popular theory courses, such as advanced harmony, counterpoint and composition, have their quotas filled with qualified applicants.

preparing buildings and arranging to feed and house nearly 5,000 on short notice. Lacking text-books, records, music and source material, without blackboards, felt erasers, score paper, office equipment or proper lighting, classes began on schedule, and during the past month the situation has improved greatly. The music school occupies two large villas (Les Goelands) on a high point of ground commanding a superb view of Biarritz and the ocean.

The school boasts a splendid faculty, including Mack Evans, in charge of choral activities; Major Mark Hindsley, band and orchestra; Lieutenant Herbert Rifkind, wind instruments and elementary theory; Captain Albert Stevens, voice; Sergeant Howard Wilson, piano, and Sergeant Robert Glover, piano and elementary theory. Sergeants Mordecai Baumann and John Salay and Lieutenant Irving Travis are among the instructors from the armed forces.

As a member of the BAU concert committee, whose chairman is Professor Rexford Keller of Ohio Wesleyan University, I had the pleasant duty of arranging two performances of organ music by André Marchal, who recently succeeded the late Joseph Bonnet as organist of St. Eustache, Paris. The recitals were given on the fine Gonzalez instrument in the Cathedral of Bayonne and were an immense success from every point of view. The Bach program was broadcast by the army's radio station AFN.

The program Sept. 18 consisted of the following works: Three Versets on the Te Deum, Anonymous; "Domine Deus, Rex Coelistis," Couperin; "Recit de Nazard," Clerambault; "Noel" with Variations, No. 10, in G major, d'Aquin; Chorale in A minor, Franck; Impromptu ("Pieces de Fantaisie"), Vierne; Berceuse ("Suite Bretonne"), Dupré; "Apparition de l'Eglise Eternelle," Messiaen; "La Vallée du Béhorléguy au Matin (Paysages Euskariens)," Bonnal; "Litanies," Alain.

A unique feature of the concert was M. Marchal, hummed the two themes that were given to him from the audience. The themes were written by Roderick Thompson and Charles Paine, both students in the music departm passacaglia. He enlarged upon them with variations and improvisations.

On Sept. 25 M. Marchal gave a Bach program which included the Fantasie and Fugue in G minor, the Passacaglia, the Toccata and Fugue in D minor, the Allegro from the Fifth Trio-Sonata and four chorale preludes.

SWELL ENGINE

Here are two close views of the Aeolian-Skinner swell engine. The comparatively small motion required to operate the swell shades (in a group) is divided into sixteen parts by the "whiffle-tree" engine, a bellows controlling each stage.

If the swell shoe is thrown wide open at one stroke, the sixteen valves collapse simultaneously, making a complete and rapid opening. If the shoe is moved more slowly, each of the bellows collapses as its contact is made by the shoe. One bellows acts as a buffer and a check upon the others. The force is transferred and evened up by the whiffle-tree coupling.

The swell shades are provided with a spring to hold them open. The swell engine works to hold them shut—wholly or in part. This controlled balance of power between the two forces provides an action that is both fast and smooth in its effect.

• Wherever ardent lovers of fine organ music gather, you'll find highest praise for the perfectly developed tone and technical efficiency of the Möller Organ. That these evidences of unique quality have been duplicated so many times, in so many places, is proof enough that this is no mere accident. The true secret is found in that little word

When all material is selected and treated with extra care-wood, leather, metal and electrical equipment give a plus that is distinctively Möller.

It's the technical expert's extra knowledge, too, that plans the ideal instrument for a specific place or purpose to broaden the musical program.

Extra skill in the hands of seasoned craftsmen means exclusive construction artistry, and a matching skill in the voicer's ear assures the ultimate in pure, full tonal quality.

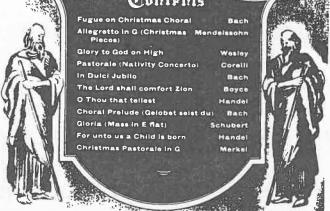

Yes, we insist upon these and many other extras, in every organ bearing the name and fame of Moller. These are the things you should look for, and expect, in the organ you play or plan to purchase.

New Music for the Organ

By WILLIAM LESTER, D.F.A.

Ballade in D, by Joseph W. Clokey; published in St. Cecilia Series by the H. W. Gray Company, New York.

Organ music of significance is here tendered the player with good taste and discerning appreciation of competent writing and high inspiration. This composer issues his creations at infrequent intervals; his work is always marked by avoidance of the banal or the meretricious. This Ballade is a splendid example of his creative ability. On the surface it looks simple. He has a love for the successions of adjacent root chords beloved by the great spirits of the medieval period—such ordered progressions are one of his most striking hall-marks. Modal color is present in this work, used with exquisite taste and effect.

We meet with much in the new issues of originality, of cleverness, of audacity—but all too little of beauty. This attribute, beauty, is markedly present in this particular piece. This fine work cannot fail to become another Clokey success.

Lorenz Portfolio of Short Offertories, for organ; published by Lorenz Publishing Company, Dayton, Ohio.

Company, Dayton, Ohio.

A meritorious collection of practical, simple pieces for service use. About one-half the material consists of transcriptions, the remainder of original works for the organ. Transcribed composers include Mozart, Gaul, Bach, Beethoven, Gounod, Handel and others. The specially written organ pieces are by Wilson, Rogers, MacDonald, Ashford, Elwood, Demorest, Lorenz and others.

Prelude and Fugue in A minor (the Great) and Chorale Prelude on "How Brightly Shines the Morning Star," by J. S. Bach; edited by Otto Olsson; published in Standard Series of Organ Compositions by the H. W. Gray Company.

Two excellent reprints of standard pieces in formats that are models of engraving and printing. Both works have long been past the day for critical appraisal—both are settled masterpieces of composition.

Folio No. 27 (Pachelbel); Folio No. 28 (Boehm), in "Masterpieces of Organ Music"; published by the Liturgical Music Press, New York City.

This steadily growing series is further enriched by these two new issues. Both composers are represented in earlier volumes—Pachelbel in No. 1 and Boehm in book 5. Again we are tendered interesting music, valuable for contents as well as historical value, by important pre-Bach composers. It is trite to say that the supreme J. S. Bach and Handel cannot be properly appreciated except by a knowledge of their forerunners. At last this essential perspective is made possible by the publication of this significant series of organ folios.

Fantasia for organ, by August Maekelberghe; published by J. Fischer & Bro., New York.

Sixteen pages of significant music, difficult in places, frequently dealing in biting dissonances and demanding a modern instrument of ample resources—and well worthwhile in its musical content. It is music of many moods, calling for expressive interpretation. Concert players looking for a "big" piece—say an alternate for Franck's "Piece Herolque"—will be well advised to consider this new work. From the auditor's standpoint it should appeal with its alternations of brilliant passage-work and soft, colorful interludes. The composer has achieved a stunning climax.

"Deck the Hall," Postlude on Christmas

"Deck the Hall," Postlude on Christmas Carol, by Jean Pasquet; published by Edwin H. Morris & Co., New York City.

Edwin H. Morris & Co., New York City. The first seasonal service piece to reach this desk. A purist might question the title; however, the carol tune used as the thematic material is not, strictly speaking, best known as a Christmas tune. It is widely known as a New Year's carol. But this is of no great importance. What does matter is that the composer has produced a carol-prelude of intrinsic value, not difficult, but of good quality.

Cantabile, by Robert Leech Bedell; "Song of Victory," by Roland Diggle; "St. Flavian," by F. Graf; "Prayer and Lullaby" and "Homage in Form of a Chorale," by Frank Heffer; published by Edward Schuberth & Co., New York City.

City.

Five interesting pieces for organ, recently published by this old New York house. All are well worth acquaintance, are on the simple side, and all written with a careful eye for practical considerations, with an avoidance of purely artistic furbelows. For the organist who is hampered by practice limitations and who is on the lookout for pleasing music offering the maximum of effect with a minimum of effort these titles will be welcome. They well fit that category.

WICKS ACTION IS AS DURABLE, literally, as the hills. Steel, copper and silver mined from mother earth are used in this fine organ, replacing those leathers, skins and other membranous materials formerly found in most pipe organ actions. It is plain to see what lasting qualities this brings to a pipe organ, for deterioration and actual wearing is almost unknown in a Wicks Organ. This, in itself, reduces costs, for while this fine organ is not by any means a low-priced instrument, in the final analysis we believe the purchaser actually saves money.

It is not too early for your organ committee to get detailed information concerning the many outstanding features of a Wicks Organ.

Toledo Recital Tribute to John Gordon Seely by Edwin Arthur Kraft

As a memorial to John Gordon Seely, one of its founders and its first dean, the Toledo Chapter presented Edwin Arthur Kraft of Cleveland in a recital on the evening of Oct. 10. Not only was the program dedicated to the memory of Mr. Seely, but it was played on the organ over which he presided for more than Seely, but it was played on the organ over which he presided for more than twenty-five years, in Trinity Episcopal over Church.

Mr. Kraft, a close friend of Mr. Seely Church.

Mr. Kraft, a close friend of Mr. Seely over a period of many years, chose a program which included two numbers written by Mr. Seely, one of which was dedicated to Mr. Kraft, and several numbers by Johann Sebastian Bach played by Mr. Seely in the Bach recitals for which he was famous. The complete program was as follows: Aria from "Dido and Aeneas," Purcell; Prelude and Fugue in G major, "All Men Must Die," "Come, Lord Jesus," "Jesus, Joy of Man's Desiring," Prelude and Fugue in A minor and "Come, Sweet Death," Bach; Largo, Handel-Kraft; "Lamentation," Guilmant; Arabesque and Allegretto Rococo, Seely; "In Solitude," Nevin; "Carillon," DeLamarter; "In Paradisum," Weitz; Funeral March and Hymn of Seraphs, Guilmant.

This recital opened the year's activities for the Toledo Chapter. The program committee is planning for monthly events from now until May. They will include the presentation of two more out-of-town artists, in cooperation with the Toledo Museum of Art, a symposium on organ music and two purely social evenings. Maude Pearson Drago is dean of the chapter.

Organ and Piano Program in Indiana.
The Indiana Chapter opened the recital season with a Sunday afternoon program at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, Indianapolis, Oct. 7. It was a return engagement of two fine musicians enthusiastically received last year. A large audience was present to hear the remarkable 11-year-old pianist, Dolores Holtz, Hamilton, Ohio, and one of our own Guild members, Oswald Ragatz, A.A.G.O., from Indiana University. The young pianist delighted and amazed with her technical skill, interpretation and stage presence in the performance of difficult numbers: Scherzo in B minor, Chopin; "Gardens in the Rain," Debussy, and Hungarian Rhapsody No. 8, Liszt. No less brilliant was the playing of Mr. Ragatz in two organ groups. The classical group included "Grand Jeu," Inumage; Concerto 1, Handel, and four Bach chorale preludes. The second group opened with the magnificent Prelude and Fugue on "B-A-C-H" by Liszt. This was followed by "Ariel," by Bonnet, and the thunderous Toccata, "Thou Art the Rock," by Mulet. This stirring program • was played from memory. As a fitting conclusion Miss Holtz played the G minor Concerto of Mendelssohn with a very able organ accompaniment by Ellen Eng-

Musical Indianapolis is waking up to the fact that the Guild has much to offer to the public. Increasing attendance greatly encourages those who plan and take part in the programs, giving promise of a splendid season.

Music-lovers of Buffalo and vicinity enjoyed a treat Oct. 15 in the recital by E. Power Biggs at the First Presbyterian Church, of which Dean Charles R. Nicholls of the Buffalo Chapter is organist. A near-capacity audience filled the large church to hear Mr. Biggs play the beautiful Austin organ, assisted by a string ensemble of fifteen players from the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra. The opening number was Handel's Concerto in F major—"The Cuckoo and the Nightingale." Then came a Bach group for organ—Fugue in C major, the "Fanfare" Fugue, followed by "Sheep May Safely Graze" from the Birthday Cantata and the Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor. Next on the program were Four Sonatas for strings and organ by Mozart, each consisting of one movement, in lively tempo—numbers 9 in F, 10 in D, 13 in C and 15 in C. After a brief intermission Mr. Biggs played the following: Introduction and Fugue from the Sonata on the Ninety-fourth Psalm, Reubke, and "Variations on a Noel," Dupré. The program was brought to a thrilling climax with the Concerto in F major for organ and orchestra.

Irene Robertson Illinois Guest.

The Illinois Chapter presented its first guest of the season Oct. 22 at St. Luke's Church in Evanston, when Miss Irene Robertson, M.Mus., F.A.G.O., was heard in a recital before an audience of encouraging size. Miss Robertson, one of the outstanding organists of the Pacific coast, holds the positions at the large First Methodist Church of Los Angeles and the University of Southern California. Her program of an hour and a quarter was representative of the organ literature heard at our best recitals.

Opening with the popular Karg-Elert "Now Thank We All Our God," a Bach group of three numbers followed, in which the cleancut playing of the Prelude and Fugue in G minor, not often heard at recitals, stood out. One of d'Aquin's "Noels" was an extra number interjected after Bach and before the Cesar Franck Fantaisie, which was played beautifully, with the ethereal Adagio the most impressive movement. Vierne's "Divertissement" gave a chance for a display of technique, Bonnet's "Ariel" was delightfully graceful, the Finale from Vierne's First Symphony pranced as becomes this warhorse, DeLamarter's Nocturne showed charming originality and four Dupré vesper numbers were a fitting close to the program, the Magnificat bringing a real climax.

The first luncheon of the season was held at Mandel's tearoom Oct. 24 and was in honor of Miss Robertson. Mrs. Ora J. Bogen, the new dean, and the first woman to hold that office in the Illinois Chapter, was in the chair. Miss Robertson spoke interestingly of the churches and organists of Los Angeles and vicinity. The sub-dean, Dr. Emory L. Gallup, introduced Miss Robertson and S. E. Gruenstein threw light on the labor situation and on the strike that delayed publication of The Diapason. A large company of members came out for the luncheon.

The first meeting of the year of the Los Angeles Chapter took place Oct. 1 in the banquet room of the Melody Lane, Los Angeles, where a chicken dinner was enjoyed by approximately seventy-five members and guests. William Blanchard presented a brief report of the New York festival which he attended as the official representative of the Los Angeles Chapter.

Members and guests were entertained by Lloyd V. Trante, who spoke in a humorous vein on "Family Life." The program committee, headed by Miss Julia Howell, presented plans for meetings for the coming year. The November meeting

The chapter hopes to have a contest for young people during the year. The prize for the winner is to be presentation to the public by the Guild in a paid recital. The December meeting will present the numbers for the examinations for the Guild associate and fellowship certificates. David Craighead will be presented by the Guild in February.

Lewis Jones Plays in Niagara Falls.

The Niagara Falls, N. Y., musical season opened auspiciously Oct. 8 with an organ recital by Lewis Jones, A.C.C.O., A.T.C.M., of St. Catharines, Ont., at St. Paul's Methodist Church. Mr. Jones presented compositions, mainly modern British and French, most of which were entirely new to Niagara Falls programs. The opening number, Introduction and Allegro, by John Stanley, reflected the influence of Bach and Handel. Variety was offered by Whitlock's Allegro Risoluto and Chanty and Darke's Fantasy for Organ. Perhaps the most unusual number was Sceats' Three Pieces for the Organ, in which the "Civic Procession" depicted a street parade with its discord, while the "Interlude" gave a quiet respite and "Oranges and Lemons," based on an old nursery rhyme, was gay. The first half closed with Shaw's "Processional" in solid, stately style.

The second part of the program con-

The second part of the program consisted of the Fantasie in G by Bach, taken at an excellent tempo. Pierne's Toccata brought out Mr. Jones' clear technique and an excellent knowledge of shading. "Rondeau," by d'Aquin, was most picturesque. The program closed with Bonnet's "Ariel," sprightly and bright, and Widor's Allegro Cantabile and Toccata, from the Fifth Symphony.

Mr. Jones exhibited excellent taste, fluent technique and careful attention to color. Additional interest was stimulated by giving a few words about most of the compositions before their rendition.

Afterward the chapter entertained the members of the St. Catharines Center, C.C.O., in St. Paul's community-house.

The next presentation sponsored by the Niagara Falls Chapter is a "hymn sing" at St. Peter's Episcopal Church Tuesday evening, Nov. 6.

Wisconsin Chapter Activities.

The first meeting of the Wisconsin Chapter this season was held at the home of Mrs. Rees Powell in Milwaukee. Plans for the year were discussed. These include a series of three artist recitals to be played by Dr. Emory Gallup of Evanston, Ill., Ernest White of New York City and Edwin Arthur Kraft of Cleveland.

An innovation for Milwaukee, which is meeting with decided success. is a series of noonday recitals. These are given by members of the chapter Mondays from 12:20 to 12:50 at St. James' Episcopal Church, in the downtown area.

Our next meeting will be an organist-choirmaster-clergy discussion evening. In conformity with national policy, this year we are putting through a membership drive which so far has meant two reinstatements and eight new members.

Recital by Mrs. Bowers in Naskville.

In Nashville, Tenn., the year's first "program meeting" of the Central Tennessee Chapter took the form of a recital by Mrs. Margaret Pittman Bowers, who played Oct. 9 at the Vine Street Christian Church, of which she is the organist. Despite the limited resources of her instrument—a two-manual Hutchings rebuilt a few years ago by J. R. Hatch—Mrs. Bowers presented a program of varied interest and appeal in a manner showing her ability to get the utmost from the instrument. Marcello's "Psalm XIX" opened the program in vigorous fashion and was followed by two settings of the chorale melody "From God I Ne'er Will Turn," one by Buxtehude and the other by Bach. These settings furnished contrast in themselves, the one being quiet and contemplative, while the other was more elaborate, with its rhythmic figurations and long interludes between contrast in themselves, the one being quiet and contemplative, while the other was more elaborate, with its rhythmic figurations and long interludes between lines of the unadorned chorale. French organ literature was drawn upon for the next four numbers. Clerambault's "Basse et Dessus de Trompette," played with admirable crispness of staccato touch and bright registration, furnished a foil to the more serious Chorale in E major by Franck. Two short "Pieces in Free Style" by Vierne provided excellent contrast to what preceded and to each other. A restful "Idylle Melancolique," with passages of delicate registration, was followed by a lively "Divertissement."

Numbers by Garth Edmundson represented American composers. His "Bells through the Trees" furnished an opportunity for use of the chimes. Next came the same composer's brilliant Toccata-Prelude on "Vom Himmel hoch." The concluding number was Purcell's Voluntary on the One Hundredth Psalm-tune. Mimeographed program notes added to the interest and enjoyment of the goodsized audience.

The Rocky Mountain Chapter had its first fall meeting at the Auditorium Hotel in Denver Sept. 24. After a dinner served to fifty members and guests, the outgoing dean, Mrs. Mary Enholm, presided at a short business meeting. She then introduced John C. Kendall, who installed the new officers. The chapter was honored in having Mr. and Mrs. Kendall as guests. Mr. Kendall is president of the Music Educators' National Conference. He is also director of musical education in the Denver public schools. The District of Columbia Chapter held its first meeting of the 1945-46 season Oct. 1 at the Church of the Latter-Day Saints. The meeting was preceded by the regular Monday evening recital, played by Wade N. Stephens, Mus.M., organist of the chapel and formerly one of the staff of the Salt Lake City Tabernacle. Mr. Stephens' program was well chosen and his playing elicited much favorable comment from his listeners, especially his performance of the Hindemith First Sonata and his improvisation on the hymn "Through Deep'ning Trials," from the church hymnal. church hymnal.

After the business meeting Temple Dunn provided the members with lists of the music used at the summer session of the Christiansen Choir School, held at Lake Forest, Ill. last summer, and discussed some of the numbers.

Caught in Strike Epidemic

After thirty-six years in which THE DIAPASON has been so fortunate as to come out promptly on or before the first day of the month without interruption, we close this volume with a delay of ten days or more, while the October issue, by great good luck, was only a few days late. All this because of a strike of Chicago union printers which continued for a little over three weeks and which halted mechanical work in all union plants and caused serious delay and loss to many publishers, as well as to the employing printers. The Diapason has gone through two world wars, a prolonged business depression, several blizzards that tied up the mails, paper shortages, etc., etc., but it took the post-world war type of civil war compel us to disappoint our readers and advertisers this time.

The epidemic of strikes that has seized nearly every industry throughout the nation has become so fashionable that one begins to wonder whether as a nation we grown up; for it certainly seems childish to disrupt business and compel both employers and employes to suffer severe financial loss to settle difficulties that should be settled by peaceful means. We do not have the habit of burdening our readers with our troubles, but as sub scribers and advertisers are directly affected, perhaps they are interested in a few facts. After months of negotiation with the typographical union and the signing of an agreement providing for a considerable wage increase, new demands were submitted in September. This was accompanied by a "slowdown" and an order by the union forbidding all over-time work. Without overtime, in view of the present shortage of men, the plants were swamped and naturally there were serious delays. Then on Oct. 2 a strike was ordered in an effort to enforce fantastic demands, which included not only higher pay, but double and triple pay for all overtime, a seven and one-fourth-hour day, two weeks' vacation with full pay, two weeks' sickness pay, full pay for all holidays on which the shops were closed, and the right to hold union meetings when and as long as desired at any time during working hours, on the employer's time, etc. Many of these demands were granted in a compromise settlement under which the men returned to work Oct. 24.

While some of our readers may take the time to figure out what all this means to us in the way of greatly increased operating costs, we might take a few moments to reflect. We pride ourselves on living in a democracy in which there is no forced labor. But we do have forced idleness. Men who have been doing the mechanical work on THE DIA-PASON for thirty years must walk out at the behest of a union which has no legal or financial responsibility. Forms of business that are strictly regulated by the government must see themselves paralyzed or ruined while those directly affected have no word in the matter.

While the men who control the nation's affairs and who are largely responsible for the situation seem helpless, we presume we must all adjust ourselves to the new zeitgeist. Perhaps some day buyers of gasoline and coal, and of automobiles, and of nearly everything else, and those who ride in elevators, will rise in their might and strike against certain unions. Perhaps they will adopt the union technique and picket the offices and homes of the John L. Lewises and Petrillos and others, and threaten them with violence if they do not cease ruling-and ruiningthe nation's activities. Enough "innocent bystanders" could do it.

Meanwhile what would the people of America say if the organists all walked out unless granted at least 30 per cent more salary, and if they picketed the churches to prove the justice of their cause?

The typographical error has been a thorn in the flesh and a fly in the ointment ever since the first printer came into the world. No matter how careful editors and proofreaders may be, Satan gets in his work on the linotype now and then. Our friend J. B. Jamison writes from his California home that he fears we have put him out of business with an error in our October issue. In his letter near the bottom of the page he wrote plainly that "If this same procedure were applied to a manual chorus based on 8-ft. tone," etc. The compositor set it 2-ft. tone, and for once nobody caught him at it. By way of extenuation it may be said that we were laboring under unusual conditions, with the printers about to strike and the man who has become expert in setting THE DIAPASON'S copy in the hospital for an operation. Of course the erudite must have realized that here was a typographical error; the others probably failed to recognize anything wrong. But we owe Mr. Jamison, a man who always writes conscientiously and with knowledge, an apology. We certainly have no desire to put him out of business.

Mr. Ridington is especially fortunate in that the new rector, the Rev. Dr. Theodore J. Schneider, thoroughly understands church music and is himself a musician.

"CHINESE MUSIC" is the title of an interesting and informative article by Beatrice Kluenter in this year's "Christmas." an annual issued by the Augsburg Publishing House and devoted to art, music and the spirit of Christmas. The author, who teaches music to Chinese students, and whose article on Chinese music will appear in the forthcoming issue of the "Enclycopedia Americana," relates the history of Chinese music, beginning with the Yellow Emperor, Huang Ti, who lived more than 2,600 years ago. Huang, with his favorite minister, Ling Lun, organized the twelve laws or fundamentals, by means of a series of bamboo tubes cut in "a certain valley." From those early beginnings, Miss Kluenter carries her readers through various dynasties. The article, which covers nine pages, is beautifully illustrated in Chinese fashion and includes the words and music of a Chinese carol, "The Moon and Stars of Christmas Eve."

More New Christmas Music: Cantatas and Carols Among Issues

By HAROLD W. THOMPSON, Ph.D., L.H.D.

By HAROLD W. THOMPSON, Ph.D., L.H.D.

In the large city churches Christmas cantatas seem to be less popular than when I first began reviewing for The DIAPASON in 1918—the year, I remember, when I myself used "The Story of Christmas" (G. Schirmer) by Dr. H. A. Matthews, one of the best of American works in this form. I believe that there is still a considerable demand, however, among the volunteer choirs of mixed voices, and it is admirably met this year by Professor Van Denman Thompson's "The Rose of Christmas" (Lorenz), a tuneful cantata running to sixty-four pages of easy, attractive music. The composer has a true lyrical gift; the solos (for all four voices) are so enjoyable that I wish they were longer. I like specially "Love Came Down at Christmas" (soprano) and "O Bethlehem" (tenor).

Perhaps the most original of the carols is "Christmas Folk Song" (Mills Music Company, New York), by George Lynn, edited by Roy Harris for SSATB unaccompanied. The harmonies are fresh; the text is the lovely one by Miss Reese beginning "The little Jesus came to town."

Another number with unusual quality is Seth Bingham's "The Christmas Child" (Galaxy), which is also unaccompanied. It begins with SA, then goes to SAT and to SATB. In the middle the mood and key change to sadness from happy adoration. Now I happen to dislike the suggestion of the Crucifixion at the season of the blessed Birth, but others deem it appropriate.

We have come to expect originality in the carols of Robert Hernried and are not disappointed this season when we see his "Jesus Lies in the Cradle" (Carl Fischer), though its harmonies are not at all startling. This carol has two stanzas with refrain; a medium voice may be used as solo at the opening, and the choir (which may be a quartet) is unaccompanied.

My admiration for the carols of Ralph E. Marryott has been so often expressed that I suppose I should assume that when stanzas with retrain; a medium voice may be used as solo at the opening, and the choir (which may be a quartet) is unaccompanied.

My admiration for the carols of Ralph E. Marryott has been so often expressed that I suppose I should assume that when I mention any of his, praise is intended. Anyhow, he has a splendid new one, "In the Lonely Midnight" (Ditson), which, in spite of its title, is not sad, but a comforting reminder that there is still divine love. The original text is well illustrated by the music, which begins with SSA and is unaccompanied throughout. Another good carol published this season by Ditson is "Come Hither, Ye Children," the well-known "Inr Kinderlein kommet" of Schulz, arranged by Leopold Syré as a lilting accompanied number that could be sung by a quartet. After a loud climax on page 7 there is added an effective page of humming, dying away to pianissimo.

The firm of Presser also has two attractive new numbers. "Come, Joyful Shepherds." by William S. Nagle, is a jolly unaccompanied carol, as merry as anyone could wish. In the second stanza the choir divides into six parts. Mr. Nagle's treatment of an unaccompanied chorus is always smoothly skillful. The other Presser number is "A Christmas Lullaby," by Frederick Stanley Smith, a tuneful accompanied carol in two stanzas that will be just right for a quartet.

Last month I mentioned Carl F. Mueller's "O Moon, Shine Forth" (C. Fischer). Since then his "Over Bethlehem's Town" (Flammer) has arrived. This pretty unaccompanied carol gives opportunity for SA solos against humming, and in the last part there is an optional high solo that soars to high B flat.

Allanson G. Y. Brown's "Christians, Awake" (Row, Boston) is a straightforward Christmas anthem in eight pages with some use of SSAA. It evidently tries to get the clangor and joy of trumpet chords, and succeeds.

"Go Tell It on the Mountain" is a Negro spiritual which owes something to the white camp-meeting tunes of the nineteenth century. John W. Work has arranged by P. J. Wilhousky for popular Christmas solo by Teresa Del Riego, "A Star Was His Candle" (Broad-hurst or Carl Fischer). In the series of "Scholin Choral Pub-hurst or Carl Fischer).

In the series of "Scholin Choral Publications" (Hunleth, St. Louis) you can now get "O Holy Night," by Adam, "Lo, How a Rose," by Praetorius, "Angels We Have Heard," from French tradition, and Luther's "Away in a Manger." The juniors sing in one or two parts and the senior choir sometimes has divisions. All who use two choirs will be interested in the series senior choir sometimes has divisions. All who use two choirs will be interested in the series.

A number of the pieces that I have already mentioned appear in editions for women's voices:

Bingham—"The Christmas Child" (Galaxy). SSA or SAT.

Henried—"Jesus Lies in the Cradle" (C. Fischer). SSAA.

Del Riego—"A Star Was His Candle" (C. Fischer). Editions for SSA and SA.

In addition there is a short Christmas anthem for SSA, unaccompanied, by Claude Means entitled "Of Jesus' Birth Today We Sing" (Galaxy), a beautiful unaccompanied number that will require careful preparation. For men's voices, TTBB, there is an edition of the "Carol of the Bells" (C. Fischer) mentioned above.

Books for the Choir Director of the Bells" (C. Fischer) mentioned above.

Books for the Choir Director

The Westminster Press (Philadelphia) recently published a book of "Anthems for the Junior Choir" under the editorship of W. Lawrence Curry as chairman of a committee that included several other well-known organists—W. W. Ashley, Roberta Bitgood, Donald D. Kettring and David Spratt, assisted by Jean W. Steele, secretary for music publications. Five of the numbers included are for Advent and Christmas.

Channing Lefebvre has arranged in three parts a book of "Old Carols for Young Men" (Galaxy). There are seventeen numbers, mostly familiar, well arranged. Try these for outdoor caroling this season.

An inexpensive set of "Christmas Carols and Chorales" edited by Ellen Jane Lorenz (Lorenz, Dayton) has twenty-two good numbers, all for 10 cents. They are printed in four parts, like hymns. This is a bargain.

Carols and Chorales" edited by Ellen Jane Lorenz (Lorenz, Dayton) has twenty-two good numbers, all for 10 cents. They are printed in four parts, like hymns. This is a bargain.

One of the best Christmas numbers ever signed by Dr. Harvey B. Gaul is his "Amish Carol of the Hills" (Galaxy). The melody was heard in the neighborhood of Lancaster, Pa. It is quiet and tender, one that will take its place with the best traditional carols of America. The arrangement is for accompanied chorus with SAT solos, but it is easy—without the touches of bravura that Dr. Gaul sometimes employs.

The firm of Hall & McCreary has a larger number of attractive carols than in any previous season I can recall. One of the best is Seth Bingham's "Gabriel, from the Heav'n Descending," based on the fourteenth century "Quem Pastores." The text is still older, in a translation by Neal. There is a section for male voice in unison and one for SA. This excellent pastoral carol can be sung by a quartet: it is accompanied and easy.

Then there is the Old French carol "Masters in This Hall," here arranged for unaccompanied chorus by Homer Whitford. The words for this favorite are by William Morris.

There are few carols available from our neighbors of South America, so we are specially "lad to have Albert W. Ream's "Oh, Sleep. Baby Jesus" on a Brazilian folk-melody. This is for unaccompanied chorus plus alto solo, the alto singing a modified inversion of the tune. Words are English and Portuguese.

W. B. Olds has two arrangements, for SATB and SSAA unaccompanied, of a pretty and rather well known Bohemian carol, "Sleep, Blessed Jesus." The version for SATB could be sung by a quartet. "The Christmas Star" by Walter H. Licht is a melodious accompanied carol for SSA.

Hall & McCreary have a new edition is a melodious accompanied carol for SSA.

Hall & McCreary have a new of "Silent Nicht"

Hall & McCreary have a new edition of "Silent Night" for SA and descant, done by Harry Robert Wilson; also an edition for SATB with descant.

At Thanksgiving you could use a novelty from the same firm, "Give Thanks to God," for SATB and SA junior choir. What makes it specially interesting is the old Dutch psalm-tune employed, not quite so fine as "Kremser," but sturdy and joyful.

A delay in printing prevents my reviewing the new Christmas numbers published by Schmidt, but this gives me an excuse to remind you of that firm's lovely carol that stays new, "Through the Dark the Dreamers Came", by Mabel W. Daniels, which comes for SATB and also for SSA. They also publish her "The Christ-Child" and "Years. Years Ago in Bethlehem" and "The Holy Star." "The Christ-Child" is an unaccompanied number with text by Gilbert Chesterton.

I have just seen the proofs of two carols to be published by the Mission Music Company. One is a delightful, easy number called "A Little Christmas Pastorale," in two pages, by Edward Shippen Barnes; it is to be sung in unison or by sopranos alone. The other is Dion W. Kennedy's "In the Dark of the Night," a beautiful carol-anthem for SA chorus, accompanied, six pages in length. The text is timely with its suggestion of peace text is timely with its suggestion of peace coming through the dark.

Equally timely is the text used by Mrs. Charlotte Garden for her carol-anthem called "Tonight," the new issue by J. Fischer & Bro. which I happen to like best. This employs an old French tune and gives opportunity to your chimes and solo stops. Though there are two or three unimportant divisions, the work could be sung well by a quartet.

and gives opportunity to your chimes and solo stops. Though there are two or three unimportant divisions, the work could be sung well by a quartet.

Another J. Fischer number which I rate high is John W. Work's arrangement of the Christmas spiritual "New Born," which you can get for SATB or for SSA unaccompanied. The version for mixed voices uses ST soloists and has some divisions; it is definitely for a chorus. Messrs. Elmore and Reed have an attractive carol called "Come, All Ye Who Weary." on a Welsh air which to most of us will not have any secular connotations. There is a baritone solo. I like this a little better than the same editors' "Thou Child Divine," an unaccompanied Moravian carol for TTBB, which is a good one. Garth Edmundson's "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light" is a good introit in the form of a chorale, but I suppose that most of us are unwilling to give up Bach's for a newcomer.

At Christmas a good many use organ and plano duets, so I should mention the "Album of Duets' for these instruments edited by Clarence Kohlmann (Presser). Temporarily the volume is out of print—I hope because of last month's advertisement in THE DIAPASON. There are fifteen duets, mostly by such composers as Handel, Mozart, Bach and Beethoven. As usual, the organist has the easier part—which is all right with me.

Probably the last composition of R. Huntington Woodman is his sacred solo for the season following Christmas, "The Gate of the Year" (G. Schirmer). There is an impressive text by Louise Haskins, all the more deeply impressive because I have heard Mrs. Woodman recite it. You can get it for medium or for high voice. The music illustrates the words well, though it is not one of Dr. Woodman's most inevitable melodies. Singers will like it. When you think of what Dr. Woodman meant to church music for more than sixty years of inspired service this song is an appropriate farewell—and welcome.

Dear Mr. Skinner:

I am glad to testify to the excellent effect of the Five-Rank Mixture on the Pedal Organ of St. Thomas' Church.

It adds clarity to the ensemble and I consider that such a stop should be included in all medium and large pedal departments.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM E. PILCHER, JR., OF LOUISVILLE

TEN YEARS AGO WILLIAM E. PILCHER, JR., became organist and choirmaster of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, Louisville, Ky., and Camille Pilcher, his wife, also an excellent musician and talented violinist, became assistant choirmaster. The choir work has developed so outstandingly that today St. Mark's choristers rank with the finest choirs in that section of the country. Beauty of tone fine under-TEN YEARS AGO WILLIAM E. PILCHER ly that today St. Mark's choristers rank with the finest choirs in that section of the country. Beauty of tone, fine understanding, enunciation and interpretation mark their work.

William E. Pilcher. Jr., began the study of piano and organ at the age of 9. After years of work with Miss Caroline Barbour, Henry Goodwin and Fred Cowles, he went to the Northwestern University School of Music. After one year at Oberlin Conservatory he studied organ with David McK. Williams of St. Bartholomew's Church, New York City, and boy choir training with the late Dr. G. Edward Stubbs. He has been organist and choirmaster of churches in Louisville and New York for twenty-five years. Camille Pilcher studied violin under Charles Letzler, Michel Gusikoff, former concert-master of the St. Louis Symphony, and Victor Kuzdo of New York, and choral work with F. Melius Christiansen and William Ripley Dorr.

The St. Mark's choir is divided into three groups of singers—the adult group, composed mostly of former members of the junior groups; the boy choir group, which rehearses three times weekly, besides rehearsals before the two Sunday services, and the girl choir group, with one special rehearsal a week. For the three groups there are five weekly re-hearsals, besides the pre-service Sunday rehearsals.

hearsals, besides the pre-service Sunday rehearsals.

An interesting feature is the progress in the boy choir group from soprano to tenor or bass. When the boys' voices show signs of changing the most promising ones are placed in the alto section, and as the change takes place they become tenors or basses. In this way the majority of the group is kept together over a period of years. The boy sopranos rehearse two afternoons a week, the younger girls one afternoon a week, the altos once a week, directed by Mrs. Pilcher, and then there is a combined choir rehearsal Saturday night directed by Mr. Pilcher.

The average age of the senior group is 24; the ages of the children in the junior groups are from 9 to 15. The younger boys and girls sing at the Sunday-school service in the church at 9:15, the boy choir and adults sing the 11 o'clock service and the girls' choir joins the adults and boys' group once a month at the 11 o'clock service.

Each summer a group of choir boys o'clock service.

Each summer a group of choir boys goes to Camp Wa-Li-Ro, Put-in-Bay, Ohio, which is conducted by Paul Allen Beymer of Cleveland. This summer ten boys from St. Mark's and two from Lexington, Ky., went with Mr. and Mrs. Pilcher.

The picture shows Mr. and Mrs. Pilcher and the four-manual Pilcher organ at the Memorial Auditorium, Louisville, where they have played at services and on broadcasts.

GEORGE C. STEBBINS, HYMN COMPOSER, DIES A TAGE OF 99

COMPOSER, DIES A TAGE OF 99

Dr. George C. Stebbins, composer of many hymns and an early associate of the late evangelist Dwight L. Moody, died Oct. 6 at his home in Catskill, N. Y., at the age of 99 years. He was the father of G. Waring Stebbins, prominent New York organist and composer, who died in 1930. Of his many settings to well-known hymns one that appears in the majority of standard hymnals is to the hymn "Saviour, Breathe an Evening Blessing." One of his most popular hymn-tunes is that to the words "Take Time to Be Holy."

Dr. Stebbins was born on a farm at Carlton, N. Y. When 13 years old he received his first musical instruction, learning sight reading in a rural "singing school." His first formal training came when he went to Buffalo to study voice. His initial experience with religious music came when he became first tenor in a Rochester church choir. A few years later he went to Chicago.

In 1874 Dr. Stebbins went to Boston few years later he went to Chicago.

In 1874 Dr. Stebbins went to Boston to become song leader at the old Clarendon Street Baptist Church. He later was director of music at the Boston home of evangelism, Tremont Temple.

evangelism, Tremont Temple.

In 1876 Dr. Stebbins began his association with Moody and Sankey. His first task was to organize a choir to assist in their famous three months' campaign in Chicago. In the next decade Dr. Stebbins made two journeys to Great Britain, where he assisted Moody and Sankey in their London and Glasgow campaigns. Princess Mary, later queen of England, asked him personally to sing his hymn "Some Time We'll Understand."

A TEN WEEKS' COURSE covering the practical needs of the church musician will be given at Fillion Studios, Pittsburgh, by George Norman Tucker beginning the third week in November and running into 1946. Mr. Tucker, one of the newer members of the Fillion faculty of forty, is organist and choirmaster at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg. The course is designed particularly to help the organist or director of the small church and the organ and its use in the service. Classés will meet once a week in the evening.

The death of George C. Stebbins on Oct. 6 recalls the era of Moody and the revival hymns produced and edited by Sankey, McGranahan and himself. On Feb. 26, 1946, he would have been 100 years old. Born on a New York State farm, he got his first taste of music as a boy of 13 in a country "singing school." His ambition early turned to church music. After service as director of music in Chicago and Boston churches he worked more than a quarter of a century with Moody and Sankey. He accompanied them on two of their visits to Great Britain and also went with them to the near East, to Egypt and to India. Later he shared with Ira D. Sankey in the leadership of singing at the Northfield Bible conferences, making a distinctive and wholesome contribution to the gospel songs that originated there. During the August conferences the whole countryside flocked to the Sunday services and the singing of the old hymns of the church by this congregation, often numbering 2,500 to 3,000, was an unforgettable experience. I well remember sharing in four of these summer gatherings, generally as piano accompanist. Mr. Stebbins would often sing one of the popular songs composed by him, robustly and with fine sense of message, sometimes including the vesper hymn "Saviour, Breathe an Evening Blessing" to his own setting, "Evening Prayer" (1878), which is now known all over the world.

It is worth recalling that this hymn was used at the second great hymn festival sponsored by the Hymn Society at Riverside Church, New York, April 21, 1940. The whole service was broadcast by WQXR and we know that the hymn was actually heard in Mr. Stebbins' home at Catskill, N. Y., to the great satisfaction of himself and his friends.

Mr. Stebbins was a vital force in the nineteenth century evangelistic revivals of which Dwight L. Moody was the central figure. His many compositions showed sincere musical feeling and his contribution to the r

Hamilton Center.

The Hamilton Center held its first regular meeting of the season Sunday evening, Oct. 14, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson. Chairman E. J. Walker reported arrangements for the November recitals in aid of the British Organ Restoration Fund. The following artists will perform: Nov. 4, Leslie Sommerville; Nov. 11, Bach Choir, under the direction of Dr. Graham Godfrey; Nov. 18, Harold Jerome; Nov. 25, Paul Daniels. A round-table discussion on the subject "The Sponsoring of Youth" was set in motion by George Veary. As a result a committee of three was appointed to make a survey of the younger members of the center, their ambitions and talents for recital work.

Brantford Center.

A well-attended meeting of the Brantford Center was held at the home of George C. White Sept. 24. A program for the fall and winter season was drawn up and it was decided to invite the public to the organ recitals. Gerald Bales, recently appointed organist at the Brant Avenue United Church, was introduced.

A musicale arranged by Mrs. J. F. Schultz and held at her home, Spruceleigh Farm, Oct. 13, was sponsored by the Brantford Center. Many music-lovers took advantage of the opportunity to hear a very fine program. The proceeds were added to the British Organ Restoration Fund. Piano duets were played by Nan and Markwell Perry, Barbara Schultz and Mrs. J. F. Schultz; there were vocal solos by Helen McDonald, Burwell Evans and Fred Lewis, a piano solo by Donald Wakely and violin numbers by Arthur Moses.

The fall season of the Kitchener Center opened Sept. 29 with a wiener roast at the country home of Leonard Griggs. Convention news and reports were chief, topics of conversation and plans were made for the year's programs.

The October meeting took the form of a trip to Stratford, where we attended a piano recital by one of our members, William France, assisted by John W. Blackburn, Mus.B., and the choir of Knox Presbyterian Church. Included on the program were several interesting compositions by the recitalist. Mr. France played: Two Chorale Preludes, Bach; Sonata in D major (Allegro con Spirito), Mozart; Concerto in A minor (Allegro Affettuoso), Schumann; Mazurka in A minor, Impromptu in A flat major, Etude in C minor and Ballade in A flat major, Chopin; Two Miniatures, France; "Gardens in the Rain," Debussy. Mr. Blackburn played the orchestral accompaniment for the concerto on the organ, and a group consisting of Reverie, Bonnet; Arioso, Bach, and "Hosannah," Dubois. Choir numbers were: "O Trinity of Blessed Light," France, and "Psalm 150," France.

REUTER ORGANS

It was three years ago that the last Reuter Organ was built. Now, after completing important war work in the Navy Rocket program which contributed so vitally to final victory, we turn again our efforts and skill to the building of fine organs. We do this with the same organization of outstanding craftsmen who built Reuter Organs before the war.

Contracts for Reuter Organs are now being accepted and our plant is in operation. Deliveries will start very soon after the Government removes the present restriction on tin essential to the fabrication of good metal pipes.

Always fine, the new Reuters will be finer than ever.

CO-OPERATION

Tone and its production are matters where individuality should be allowed free expression.

There are many parts of the modern organ in which mass production by machines could be used to advantage without the sacrifice of individuality and it is our opinion that through co-operation this tendency can be hastened.

Mass production demands large quantities of any unit before it can be started. The individual organ concern cannot possibly use large lots of anything, but the industry as a whole can use a sufficient quantity of many parts to make it worth while to set up modern methods.

THE DELIVERY SITUATION ON ORGOBLOS

It is already evident that the installation of new organs and Orgoblos will be a commendable contribution to reconversion activities.

Spencer, in anticipation of this demand, ordered all necessary materials months ago. Although all limitations have been removed, it will be months, and perhaps a year, before we can build up stocks of all the popular motor rating for the Orgoblo.

Therefore, each order for Orgoblos will have to be taken in its turn, and we advise all who are planning installations to enter their orders through their organ manufacturer or with us as soon as possible.

ALKINS DIRECTS MUSIC FOR CONSECRATION OF BISHOP

CONSECRATION OF BISHOP

Impressive ceremonies marked the consecration of the Right Rev. John E. Hines, former rector of Christ Church Parish in Houston, Tex., as bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal diocese of Texas Oct. 18, the Feast of St. Luke. Historic Christ Church has twice previously been the scene of the consecration of priests to the bishopric of the Episcopal Church. The Right Rev. Henry D. Aves was consecrated Bishop of New Mexico there in 1904 and the present bishop of Texas, the Right Rev. Clinton S. Quin, was consecrated bishop coadjutor in 1918. Upon retirement of Bishop Quin, Bishop Hines will become the fourth bishop of Texas. Texas.

Hines will become the fourth bishop of Texas.

The music for the service was under the direction of David Stanley Alkins, organist and choirmaster of Christ Church, assisted by Mrs. Orin G. Helvey, assistant organist of the church, and Anthony E. Rahe, organist of Trinity Church. Fifteen choirs from the Houston parishes combined to form a mass choir. Chorale preludes of Johann Sebastian Bach were used at the beginning and the service was brought to a close with the Cathedral Prelude and Fugue in E minor by Bach. The choirs sang the following music: "Ecce Sacerdos Magnus," Burgess-Titcomb; the plainsong office for the Holy Communion, the "Missa Marialis"; a chorale, "Grant Me True Courage, Lord," Bach; "Emitte Spiritum Tuum," for the gradual, by Schuetky; a motet, "Nunc Sancte nobis Spiritus," Brahms, and "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling-Place," Brahms.

CLYDE ENGLISH has been appointed assistant professor of music at the University of West Virginia, teaching organ, piano and theory. There is a possibility of starting courses in church music at a tuture date. Mr. English retains his position at the Sixth United Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh.

Strengthening the good old ideas with improved new ones in building a fine organ.
